説明

Redmine need a feature when user can choose which would be start page - project page, overview page or MY PAGE. If user are not choosen which will be a Start page that settings are taking from global administration.

What does 'Start page' means for you ? The page that is displayed after the user has logged in ?

Yes

I think the 'Start page' will be useful.

But after logged in, to select start page is difficult when the user included in many projects. so, I recommend you to divide this with two viewpoints.

User can select default project at My account menu.

Project administrator can choose start page of project.

Now, Redmine can show the customized 'start page' after logged in.

What do you think about this?

I'd like to add that I would also like this feature, especially so that once user's login they can be pushed to their personalized pages which (by default) include a list of all tickets they are responsible for.

Could someone could build a plugin for this to show a sample implementation? I'm pretty sure all the API is available in trunk and 0.8-stable.

+1 Really needed

+1 because this is indeed very much needed.

+1 I would highly appreciate this feature

I have attached the patch.

This is a simple patch that gives the Start Page three options: Home, Project, and My Page.

At the moment, I have only added application settings, but it is functionally possible to support settings for each user in the future.
