説明 The wiki formatter enforces a non-obvious dependency on strong " and emphasis " tags. Specifically, emphasis tag characters must be contained within strong tag characters. Thus _This Text is Bold Italic; but This text has " Italicized as Well . Making this worse is that Redmine 0.7, when importing from Trac (which uses various numbers of ' to accomplish the same thing), substitutes "text" for " ""text"" " when the equivalent in Redmine should be text. Lastly, Redmine does not properly parse text formatting that is enclosed in any adjacent characters without a whitespace separator: (This is Not Formatted) (but this is). I suggest that the dependency be removed and that 'x' display the same as 'x'. I have mixed feelings about whether or not formatting tags should require whitespace separation from surrounding text. Finally, I cannot get a preview of this submission, all I see is a frame with the word Preview in the upper left corner; much like a html fieldset legend with empty contents.
journals Actually, what the Trac import routine does is output this: ""text"" becomes text Let me try that again. ""text"" becomes 'text' The parser also produces erroneous output when using parenthesis: 'one' and 'two' becomes one and two as it is supposed to. but when you parenthise 'one' and 'two', what happens is: '(one)' and '(two)' becomes (one) and (two) which is obviously not what it should look like. and this happens also for bold string: 'one' and 'two' becomes (one) and (two) First part fixed in r3561. Last part in r3563.
