説明

It's probably all activities are used... We created so much fine-grained activities, which after time seems to be to complicated. Now I need delete some activities and merge records into other activities.

For example, we have two activities: Programmer Junior and Programmer Senior. I would like to have only one category: Programmer. SO I would like to rename first category and delete second category. When deleting second category, there should be similar dialog, found in other parts of Redmine: it should ask me what to do with existing records? set different activity from select or leave activity clean...

Is it possible?

Committed in r1558.

You can now delete activities (priorities and document categories as well) and reassign associated objects to another value.
