| Is it possible to get the diff in the email if something is changed? Right now Redmine only reports that page was changed, and a link to the diff. Is it possible to have that changes inlined to the email body?   |                                      |                      |            |

| You can do it with the patch in #11530 and "Wiki Change Notifier": https://github.com/kou/redmine-plugin-wiki-change-notifier plugin.  |                                      |                      |            |
| You can install them by the following command lines:  |                                      |                      |            |
