#11105 was fixed, so do you mean that this problem still happens?

yes! is happening in 2.2.3

I have also experienced this too. In my case, I was using 'render_to_string' method rather than 'render_on'.

#11105 seems to be covering the case of 'render_on' only (this is just my guess; I didn't make a detailed inspection.)

I can confirm this issue, too!

Still happening in 2.5.1
