説明 The token generator in Mailer.rb (Mailer.token_for) has the following code: <pre>host = Setting.mail_from.to_s.gsub(%r{^.@}, " ")</pre> If you have configured Redmine to send from an address with both name and email, (f.ex. "Redmine Mailerno-reply@redmine.org") this results in a Message-id like the following being created: <pre>></pre> the double ">" at the end is considered illegal by some mail servers, and results in them rejecting it. A possible solution could be the following: <pre>host = Setting.mail_from.to_s.gsub(%r{(^.@) >}, " ")</pre> journals Fixed in r13126, thanks for pointing this out. Merged.
