説明 I think add ability set "private note" visibility for specific role will be very usefull feature! I didn't find this in features or in plugins. Please see mockup of it.
journals Add will be usefull too: #12706 #9432
For example I want to add private notes only for customer, and only for co-workers, and only for administrators, and only for managers. 4 types/levels/visibility of privates notes.
+1 duplicate of #1193 ? Kevin Palm wrote: duplicate of #1193 ? No! #1193 and this issue #17132 are different. In #1193 note(+all+) private per role. In this issues note(+every+) may private per different roles(customer, co-worker, manager, both manager+co-worker, etc.). See the screen private. Understand the difference?

+Summary(key features)+

set visibility of note for any role/roles(multiple too)

the ability to set the visibility of the creation the ability to set the visibility, when you edit the note.

Hi Alex,

Do you have solved the problem ? i have same problem in my redmine.

Would be nice to see this implemented. At the moment, only administrators are able to see other's private notes.

I would also like to request this to be fixed. When you go into Roles and configure them you can see there is a check box to allow viewing of private messages. Things is, it doesn't actually work. In order for a user to see private messages on a ticket they have to set as an Administrator of the Redmine site. This should go with out saying, that's not Ideal. Can this please be looked into? Thank you
