説明

In my theme the #content element is positioned relatively. It leads to an incorrect positioning of the context menu wich living inside the #content. A most simple fix is to bubble the context menu up to the top of DOM. Can we use this way?

Patch based on r16333.

I applied this patch today (Redmine 3.4.3), as I also noticed that the context menu always appeared incorrectly away from the mouse pointer. The behavior is now has expected.

This very simple patch should be considered but a future release of Redmine.

Thank you Serge.
